Royal Atmosphere To Prevail At Spring Prom This Evening

Palatial grandness will envelop the college gymnasium tonight for the annual spring prom given by the senior class. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 with Larry Foster and his orchestra providing the music.

Royal coats of arms will line the walls of the gymnasium and a silver chandelier will add to the regal atmosphere. Center of attraction will be the queen's throne.

High point of the evening will be the coronation ceremony. Crowning of the prom queen will take place at 10:30 with her escort placing the crown. Bob Kaliban, Loras, will be master of ceremonies.

Lead Grand March

Seniors will form a royal guard for the queen and her escort as they approach the throne. Barbara Gusich will be mistress of ceremonies.

The queen, whose identity will be kept secret until crowning time, was chosen by an all-school vote from five candidates elected by the seniors. Potential queens are Lily Esquivel, Panama; Mary Lynch, Waterloo; Mary McGinty, Rockwell City; Joan Madden, Milwaukee, and Camille Potenzo, Chicago.

Wear Ballerina Gowns

Miss Lynch has chosen a white faille princess styled ballerina formal for the dance tonight. Her escort will be Jerry Nickels from the University of Indiana. Powder blue is Miss Madden's color choice for her ballerina length gown. She will attend the dance with Paul Lucke, Loras graduate.

Escorted by Jim Kissane of Loras, Miss McGinty will wear a blue lace ballerina. Also in blue will be Miss Potenzo, who has selected a ballerina style in nylon over net. Her escort will be Jim Harrington of Loras.

Miss Esquivel, who will wear a rose net full length gown, will be escorted by Ed Schwalter of Loras.

Parents of all seniors have been invited to be chaperones at the dance.

Council Completes Roster of Officers

Sophomore Maureen Sullivan and freshman Karen Morrow were elected officers of the Student Leadership Council last week. Miss Sullivan will serve as treasurer next year and Miss Morrow as secretary.

A sociology major from Fort Dodge, Maureen Sullivan defeated Margery Schlink in the final balloting for treasurer. She is the present secretary of the SLC and has served as a tuckpointer for the past year. She holds membership in the Cecilia Circle and the Social Science club.

Karen Morrow, history major from Des Moines, is vice-president of the freshman class and a member of the project committee. She is a member of the Clarke College Players and the Press Club. Other candidates for the office of secretary were Jeanette Hogan, Patricia Strouhal and Mary Clare Costello.

Donna Becker and Mary Ann Kane were elected president and vice-president of the SLC in February.

New Officers Accept Duties Next Thursday

Outgoing class and club presidents will pass on the responsibilities of their offices next Thursday evening in the symbolic torch passing ceremony which climaxes College Day observances.

The ceremony, in which the entire student body will participate, will be staged in front of Mary Frances Clarke hall at 8 p.m.

College Day will open at 7:30 a.m. with High Mass celebrated by the Rev. Edmund A. Kurth, chairman of the economics department at Loras college, in the Chapel of the Sacred Heart.

Planting of the senior tree is scheduled for 10 o'clock. Maurna Murphy will act as mistress of ceremonies at the informal program on the campus of Mary Frances Clarke hall.

Formal dinner will be served in the college dining hall at 6 p.m.

In charge of the skit to be presented by the seniors in Terence Donaghoe hall following the torch passing are Janet Lucy, Mary Jo Howter and Darlyne Barnes. Mary Lynch is stage director and Bernadette Dreyer is technical director. Rita Mootz is in charge of music. Accompanist is Marilyn Splear.

Traditionally, the seniors will end the program with a pledge to Alma Mater who will be represented by a member of the junior class.

Commencement Speaker Will Be Bishop Wright

Speaker for Clarke's 1955 commencement exercises June 4 will be the Most Rev. John J. Wright, bishop of Worcester, Mass., it has been announced by Sister Mary Anne Leone, BVM, president.

Formerly auxiliary bishop of Boston, Bishop Wright was appointed first bishop of the Worcester diocese in 1950. He was born in Boston in 1909 and was educated at Boston college, St. John's seminary and the North American college and Gregorianum in Rome.

Class Queens Officiate Sunday In May Coronation Ceremonies

The Blessed Virgin will be honored by the entire student body of Clarke Sunday when the annual May coronation ceremonies will take place. A queen chosen from each class will crown Our Lady at one of her campus shrines while class members form the procession.

Our Lady of the Sunset on the campus behind Mary Frances Clarke hall will be crowned by Virginia Coogan, Peoria, Ill. The juniors attending her will be Marion Lifka, Audrey Thiel and Kathy Holland.

Sophomores elected Mari Ann Tillia, Jackson, Minn., to crown the statue of Our Lady of the Moonlight on the campus off Rose O'Toole hall. Attending her will be Susan Guay, Bernice Stark, Maurita Brady, Mary Jo Burke, Jill Armstrong and Shirley Mohr.

Claire Meehan, freshman from Marcus, will crown Our Lady of Lourdes in the grotto on Angel campus. Her attendants will be Colleen Kalishek, Carol Nilles and Dollie Determan. Crownbearer will be Mary

Over the Net College Orchestra Presents Program

Strings and woodwinds were featured in the orchestral program presented yesterday afternoon in the assembly hall.

Latanni's Pizzicato Gavotte for Strings was performed by Geraldine Hanten, Mary Margaret Rater, Carol Loosbrock and Carol Sprengelmeyer, violins; Mary Cosgrove, cello; Patricia Condon and Colleen O'Meara, bass.

A woodwind trio composed of Lore Fisch, flute, Sue Guay, oboe, and Georgine Harrington, clarinet, presented Waltzing Woodwinds by Turtin.

The entire orchestra played a variety of numbers, including Prayer for Peace by Marlin, Dancing Moonbeam by Ward, Royal Emblem by King, Mosaic Outline by Loureder-Reynaud, Syncopated Clock by Leroy Anderson and Northern Lights Fantasy by Weidt.

Other members of the orchestra are Helen Marben and Carol Splear, clarinets; Pauline Ament, saxophone; Kathleen McSweeney and Linda O'Loan, trumpets; Sue Gilroy and Mary Judith Hess, drums; and Marilyn Splear, piano. Director is Sister Mary St. Ruth, BVM.

Clarke Freshman Sings On Television Broadcast

Colleen Kalishek, freshman music major from Waucoma, sang on a television show, April 22. Sponsored by a Massey-Harris Implement company, the program originated from KGLD-TV in Mason City. Mary Hilger, freshman, was Miss Kalishek's accompanist and also played a piano solo.

Yesterday the Clarkettes sang at the installation ceremony of the Dubuque's Newcomers' Club. The program, held at the Y.W.C.A., included Dedication by Franz; In My Garden by Firestone; All the Things You Are by Kern; and Come to the Fair by Martin.

Technicians Place Third In City League Tourney

The Meadow Gold Technicians Clarke volleyball team, finished in third place in the city league volleyball tournament. Eleven teams were entered in the tourney.

Contending against the Behr Implement Co., their rivals for third season, however, the team fell short and lost to Key City Gas who they had previously defeated twice.

Team members included captain Janice Meyers, Virginia Holmberg, Colleen O'Meara, Benita Kane, Carol McCauley, Eloise Kaufmann, Carol Petersen and Tissy Kane. Freshman Alice Schiltz, Clarke, played on the winning Rockwells team.

Players Discover Why 'Rivals' Failed

They memorized lines, practiced, constructed stage settings. Then they presented The Rivals. During the three performances they played to a grand total of 107 Clarke students.

So the Clarke College Players took a poll.

They found that the most common objection to the production was choice of play. Among college students this criticism sounds rather ridiculous. The Rivals is a classic. On the Waterfront is nothing more than a good movie.

For the general public this objection is a legitimate one, however. If the players wish to play to a full house, their productions will undoubtedly need more popular appeal which will attract outside patrons.

Some students complained about the price of the ticket. That "exorbitant" price consisted of exactly one dollar. Those same students, no doubt, pay 75¢ plus carfare each weekend to see a real "live" movie. That's logical?

"No time" was found written on many returned questionnaires. A quick check would likely prove that the staunch non-supporters divided their weekend between sun-bathing and going downtown for entertainment.

Poor publicity and lack of enthusiasm were also among the criticisms of the spring production. The blame for this, however, goes to the drama department. The cast itself was heard griping about the play and posters were put up only several days before the first presentation.

Polled students, it is obvious, listed many reasons for not attending the play. Some of them were understandable, some of them were not. The Players can never hope for 100 per cent attendance, but they can expect better support than they're getting.

It's a Good Idea To Get Acquainted

We're all guilty of it—guilty of thinking of the Blessed Virgin as nothing but the holiest of far-off ethereal beings.

We firmly believe all the things that the Baltimore catechism tells us about her. It's all wrapped up in a neat little package for us. That, we think, should take care of the whole matter.

But it doesn't. When becoming the Mother of Christ, she became our Mother too. We've heard it over and over again. But has it ever really sunk in?

As our Mother, she's intensely interested in us. She loves us and naturally wants us to love her. We can't love her, though, if we don't know her.

How can we get to know her? The solution is simple. Carrying it out, we know, is more difficult but it can be done. Here's how. We can get up a half hour earlier in the mornings to go to Mass. We can take off ten minutes a day to say a rosary. We can give up those few extra hands of bridge to stop in the chapel for a visit. We can make any number of little sacrifices. But it will be worth it.

May is Mary's special month. It's almost half over. However, it's not too late to start. The sooner we get to know our Blessed Mother, the sooner we can love her.

Horrors! It's Friday the Thirteenth! Check Origin of Your Superstitions

By Shirley Blood

Meowl Crash! Ah-chool Perhaps salt over your left shoulder. The devil these sounds didn't mean anything special yesterday, but then, that was yesterday. Today is the day when superstitions reign supreme. A look into the origins of ever-popular superstitions proves enlightening.

For example, take the idea of Friday the Thirteenth itself. Why is it considered so unlucky? Various legends report that Adam and Eve ate of the forbidden fruit on a Friday, thus making the day unlucky for all mankind. Others say that it is ominous because of our Lord's crucifixion on Good Friday. The mathematical part enters from the belief that Judas was the thirteenth guest at the Last Supper.

Ancient peoples, especially the Egyptians, believed that witches took on the appearance of black cats which had no less than nine lives. For this reason the pyramid people didn't stop at mummifying human "witches"; they even made mummies of the cats. Recently a cemetery containing thousands of mummified felines was found.

The Romans believed in the alternation theory: every seven years a person's luck changed. Luck consisted of health, fortune and happiness. Mirrors were supposed to have reflected this luck. Therefore, if one broke a mirror, 2,556 days of bad luck were to follow immediately.

Spilling salt is considered THE mortal sin among superstitious people. It reverts to ancient times when salt was very scarce, and considered a token of friendship. When spilled, enmity was to occur. The antidote? Throw some can't harm you that way.

The origin of the superstitious sneeze

regarding marilykes:

Here's What We Think About Fashions

Quite a stir is being created in Dubuque about the Marilyke campaign for "modest" clothes. This campaign is hitting especially the high school girls. Here's what some Clarkites think about the situation.

Marjorie Hogan, senior from Dubuque, says: I think that the Marilyke campaign will defeat itself with too many extreme rules. High school students, from the sounds of this campaign, are being led to think that it is a sin to wear a sleeveless dress.

Immodesty is always wrong but it is up to the individual and to the home to determine what is modest and what is immodest.

To me this campaign seems more Puritan than Catholic and although we can turn to our Blessed Mother as an example of modesty I think it would be better if her name were not dragged into a campaign of this sort.

Kathy Burke, junior from Des Moines, says: I don't believe in carrying anything to an extreme. But I think that a campaign for reasonable modesty in dress can have good results if it is done in the correct way.

In high school we had a somewhat more moderate project and after a few months the stores were carrying attractive formals in non-strapless styles that even girls from the public school were buying them.

I don't think, however, that such a campaign should be carried so far that it will be the object of laughter and ridicule.

Kathy Bahl, senior from Fennimore, Wis., says: "A little of a good thing goes a long way," but the advocates of this Marilyke campaign have certainly ignored this old adage. In their zeal for modesty, they have completely forgotten the essence of their purpose as well as the modern, intelligent, sensible youth of today.

One facet of this campaign seems to be centering around proper dress for women, concentrated especially on teenagers. By chance I happened to see a rack of Marilyke formals at a downtown department store, and I sincerely doubt whether the average, good Catholic parent would and ending at 9 a.m. The coeds called for their dates at the crack of dawn, entertained them with a floor show, danced to recorded music and then served orange juice, doughnuts and coffee.

Accentuating the negatives paid off for a junior at the University of Maryland. He received a ticket for illegal parking but not before he had anticipated the clutches of the law. The student had taken pictures of the parking lot, showing where he had parked, the crowded conditions, the absence of "no parking" signs in his choice of locations, and a "sea of mud" surrounding his car.

After studying the negatives carefully, the traffic appeals board dismissed the case without a fine.

What's new in the colleges is being reviewed this time from recent Associated Collegiate Press releases.

A new ruling has gone in at Colorado University. Freshmen won't be allowed to bring their cars to school next year. According to the board of regents the ban is strictly from an academic point and not to solve parking problems.

A study of first-year students who have trouble making the necessary grade point showed that more freshmen with cars are on academic probation than those who travel by foot. Of course, the administration hopes that the new ruling will ease the traffic problem also.

From Hillsdale college in Michigan comes a bright idea. The Kappa Kappa Gammas there scheduled an informal party recently starting at 5 a.m.

Clarke Musicians Assist Loras Men In Band Concert

Six Clarke musicians will add "tone" to the Loras spring band concert which will be presented Monday evening at 8:15 in the fieldhouse. Director is Mr. Vaughn Gayman, instructor of speech at Clarke and also a member of the Loras faculty.

Making their last appearance with the band will be Marilyn Fifield and Rita Mootz who form a vocal trio with Sue Kelly.

Miss Kelly also plays the flute with the band. Other Clarke instrumentalists in the Loras band are Lenore Fisch, flute, and Sue Guay, oboe.

Peggy Fox '54, who made history in 1952 when she became the first female member of the Loras band, will be back to solo on her trumpet. Now band director in McGregor, Miss Fox is also bringing a flute trio from her high school band.

In addition to band music, the evening's program will include vocal selections by the Loras Glee Club and by the Loras, a quartet.

There is no admission fee for the concert.

Articles in Summer Labarum Range from Moby Dick to Pogo

A "Seascape of Beauty" will usher in the summer issue of the Labarum on May 24, according to co-editors Joan Madden and Marion Lifka. This lead article, written by Miss Madden, illustrates the power and beauty found in the epic sweep of Moby Dick.

Ogden Nash and Phyllis McGinley form an hilarious two-some as they are coupled by freshman Mary Hilger. In her essay, "No Stern Untoned," Miss Hilger points out the unforgettable art and humor of the light versifiers. The little girl in Mary Dougherty's story discovers quite suddenly that things will be "Never the Same Again" when she learns that she is to have a new little brother or sister.

Gives Chinese Version
Katherine Au-Young explains the difficulties of the Chinese student who is attempting to learn English in her article, "Chinese Tongue and English Twisters." Choral speaking courses are suggested as a possible aid for the beginning student.

"Novel" Anticipator of Psychoanalysis, Oliver W. Holmes presented a unique approach in his writing. In her essay, Carol McCauley shows the emphasis he placed upon heredity as a force in character development.

Marice Moylan dons her rose-colored glasses and shoves aside the Spanish moss of the Okefenokee swamp in order to take "A Peek at Pogo," her favorite cartoon character.

Writes on Saint
Reading an unusual biography of St. Thomas More led Sara McAlpin to delve further into the facts of the life of this heroic saint. Her essay on some of the highpoints of his life rouses the question "What Manner of Man Is This?"

Marion Lifka shows that American lovers of literature were first treated to "Dante Via Longfellow," and points out the great work Longfellow has done both in his own translations and in clearing the way for later translators.

Marjorie Hogan, Patricia Sprung, Catherine Eck, Kathleen Sullivan, Wanda Funk and Diana Borst will supply the illustrations.

Sister Mary Xavier, BVM, chairman of the drama department, and seven student assistants are responsible for registration activities for the national convention of the Catholic Theatre conference to be held at the University of Notre Dame June 12-15. Applications have already been received from over 600 faculty members and students throughout the country and Canada.

Assisting on the registration committee, both here and at Notre Dame, are Kathy Burke, Kathy McSweeney, Yvonne McElroy, Stephanie Simon, Mary Catherine Blake, Mary Alice Cox and Carol Dunham.

One of the features of the three-day convention will be the arena presentation of Blithe Spirit by the Clarke College Players.

Benita Kane Wins State Scholarship To Study Spanish

Benita Kane, senior Spanish major from Dubuque, has been awarded a Pan American scholarship of $1,000 for 1955-56 by the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs. Announcement of the award came this week from Mrs. F. E. Van Alstine, Sioux City, chairman of the Department of International Affairs.

The scholarship permits Miss Kane to study for her master's degree in any Latin American country. According to present plans she will go to either Mexico or Peru.

President of the Clarke unit of the Iowa Future Teachers association, Miss Kane has served twice as chairman of Teacher Education day at Clarke. As a Spanish major she recently headed the student committee which planned Clarke's observance of Pan American day. She has frequently appeared on the dean's list for scholastic honors.

In addition to her academic activities Miss Kane has participated in sports, playing for four years on Clarke's championship volleyball team. She has also taken part in the college and city basketball tournaments.

Miss Kane

Accentuating the negatives paid off for a junior at the University of Maryland. He received a ticket for illegal parking but not before he had anticipated the clutches of the law. The student had taken pictures of the parking lot, showing where he had parked, the crowded conditions, the absence of "no parking" signs in his choice of locations, and a "sea of mud" surrounding his car.

After studying the negatives carefully, the traffic appeals board dismissed the case without a fine.

pay his hard-earned money for such monstrosities. The campaign is entirely too extreme and if only the promoters were less radical and more reasonable they would gain support instead of ridicule. Lois Connelly, junior from Dubuque, says: "The Marylke code is too radical. I find nothing wrong with wearing sleeveless blouses and dresses. To make dresses modest is all right, but when the campaign promotes longer sleeves and low dresses to be no more than two inches below the neckline, it's ridiculous. I think the most of the girls themselves feel that the campaign is defeating its own purpose."

was the question Karen Morrow heard from everyone after her startling statement during a campaign speech for SLC treasurer. After elaborating the attributes of her candidate, Karen queried the assembly, "And who would be a better treasurer than Margie?" The unusual thing about the question was that Karen was campaigning for Maureen Sullivan whose opponent was Margie Schlink.

was Sister Mary James Ann's thought after Henry Dougherty sheepishly explained the case of the missing clothesline to her. Seems that after a tedious but rewarding search for a line to hang paintings on, Sister strung it up between two trees and went away. When she returned it was gone. Explained Henry, "I thought it was those high school boys playing tricks again."

Ping Pong Title Goes to Au-Young

"Queen of the bouncing ball" was the title given to Kathy Au-Young last Thursday when she won the annual WAA ping pong tournament by defeating Pat Spaight in the final round. Pat has held the championship title for the past two years.

The new champion won her chance at the finals by defeating Jane Sorenson. Pat's victim in the semi-finals was Mary Kay Watson.

Final scores were 21-16 and 21-18 giving Kathy the necessary two out of three wins.

Defeated in the quarter-finals were Annette Horngren, Geri Halloran, Nancy Cant and Rosaleen McEnany. In recognition of her victory, Kathy will be awarded a trophy at the WAA honors convocation.

Biologists Read Papers At Quarterly Meeting

Clarkites Aren't Superstitious---Much!

By Virginia Holmberg

"Wish on stars?" I'm more practical-minded than that!" was Sister Mary Robert Hugh's prompt reply when questioned on her superstitions. Sister apparently was voicing the opinion of all Clarkites, for discovering a Clarke girl who admits she's superstitious is almost as difficult as finding the proverbial needle in the haystack.

There are a few girls, however, who don't take black pussies and broken mirrors quite so much in stride. To counteract these evil omens, Pat Sprung believes there are several signs of good luck too—every evening, she faithfully wishes on the first star. An itching nose, the traditional sign of meeting someone new, will always mean something very special to her also. "Right before I met Dean," she said with a sly smile, "my nose itched like crazy."

Who's Afraid of Ladders?

Walking under ladders is something Lorraine Bodner refuses to do. Her reason, however, is perhaps more practical than superstitious—she's afraid the ladder might fall over on her.

Kathy Burke, on the contrary, goes out of her way to walk under ladders, but she does wish on falling stars. Another starwisher is Audrey Alexander, but she adds quickly that she doesn't really believe in it because she's been making the same wish every night!

Sister Mary Michail also wishes on stars, and among the things to avoid, in her opinion, are black cats and cracks in sidewalks. Both invite bad luck, she says.

Outdoor Art Show Next Friday Features Pictures 'on the Line'

Clarkites and Dubuquers will have a chance to pick their paintings directly off the clothesline next Friday when the art department holds its first outdoor stand on the front campus near Friedman lane. The one-day show will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Clotheslines, strung from tree to tree, will hold various types of art works. Outdoor demonstrations, in which 28 students will participate, are scheduled throughout the day.

Sell Sandals

Katy Wegs, Wanda Funk and Verna Friedman will make and sell cowhide sandals. Kay Eck, Patricia Sprung and Charlene Craighead will do pen drawings to order.

Faculty Members Elect Pat Spaight Outstanding Senior

Patricia Spaight, outgoing president of the Student Leadership Council, was named the most outstanding member of the class of 1955 at the climax of the annual honors convocation yesterday. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Spaight of Cedar Rapids, she will receive the Mary Agnes O'Connor award at commencement.

Miss Spaight

Selected by faculty vote, Miss Spaight received the highest average rating in 10 categories including leadership, cooperation, courtesy and scholarship. Runners-up for the award were Joan Madden, Milwaukee, and Mary Jo Howerter, Des Moines.

On Courier Staff

An English major, Miss Spaight has been a member of the Courier staff since she was a freshman and served as co-editor last year. Active in all student activities, she has held the offices of treasurer and secretary as well as president of the SLC. At yesterday's convocation she was one of five seniors admitted to Rho chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, national honorary society.

Active in Sports

In addition to her academic activities, Miss Spaight has participated in sports. She has been class cheerleader for four years and won the ping pong championship for two consecutive years.

The Mary Agnes O'Connor award, a cash prize of $25, was established by the late Honorable Frank A. O'Connor, Dubuque, in memory of his wife.

Orders for charcoal portraits will be accepted by Marjorie Hogan, Carol Sprengelmeyer and Cora Gordon. Demonstrations of oil and casein techniques will be given by Sally Thomas, Anne Horton, Marice Moylan, Kathy Sullivan, Marcy Gould, Patricia Kestler, Marie Olivieri, Lois Glab, Margaret Friel and Arlene Golobitz.

Do Paintings

Water color and ink paintings will be executed by Fran Dieter, Marlene Steffensmeier, Marion O'Connor, Mary Kivlahan, Alice Becker, Mary Jeanne Duford, Maralyn Hoare, Evelyn Wyatt and Ruth Kerper.

If the weather is unsatisfactory, the clothesline show will be postponed to Monday, May 23.

Home Economics Head Attends Radio Convention

Special guest at the 1955 annual convention of American Women in Radio and Television at the Drake hotel in Chicago last weekend was Sister Mary St. Clara, BVM, chairman of the home economics department. Sister, along with other winners of the McCall Mike, was honored at one of the convention programs at which the 1955 winners were presented.

Sister Mary St. Clara received one of the first McCall awards which were established in 1952 to honor outstanding women broadcasters and executives for their contribution to public welfare.

Sister Mary Francine, BVM, college registrar, and Sister Mary St. Laura, BVM, of the dietetics department, represented Clarke Wednesday at a meeting of teacher training colleges in Iowa. Sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction, the meeting was held in Des Moines.
